home, No. 25 East Fifty-fifth street, at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. Secretary Root, Mrs. Wales and the dead man's side. Mrs. Root, who has been in Europe all summer, is now on the ocean, having sailed for home from Antwerp last Saturday.

The death of Mr. Wales has been expected for a week. He has been ill for ore than a month. A week ago he had a stroke of apoplexy, which, taken with his advanced age and the general collapse of his strength preceding it, unconsciousness last night, and Secreington, as it was evident Mr. Wales could not live long. Mr. Root arrived at the house early this morning and re-mained there until the end.

Mr. Wales was born in Wales, Salem County, Mass., Oct. 4, 1825. When he was twenty-one he came to New York and two years later was made managing ditor of the Scientific American. He came part owner of the paper and kept up his connection with it until 1871, when he resigned. He has been immensely public spirited and has held a number of positions in public life. He was the New York Commissioner to the Paris Exposition of 1855, and during the civil war served on the Executive Committee of the Christian Commission. He was President of the Park Department of New York in 1873 and a year later ran unsuccessfully on the Republican ticket for Mayor. For two years after this e was President of the Department of

He was a Park Commissioner from 1830 to 1885. Mayor Strong made him one of the East River Bridge Commis-sioners, but Mayor Van Wyck removed him with the rest of the incumbents and appointed Democrats.

Mr. Wales took a keen interest in art and was one of the founders of the Metropolitan Museum. He was a prominent member of the Union League Club, the Century Association, National Academy of Design and many other clubs. He was also a man of wealth, his state being estimated at $1,000,000. Mrs. Wales before her marriage was Miss Frances E. Johnson. On Feb. 12, 900, they celebrated their golden wed-ling. Edward H. Wales and Mrs. Root tre their only children.
